

Hello and Welcome to the DarrasLaw newsletter.

Late March promises to bring in nicer weather and beach trips for college kids on Spring Break. With March Madness, comes victory and the agony of defeat as college hoops brackets shatter and underdogs rise in the ranks.

Major League Baseball season has opened too, and fans everywhere gear up to watch while simultaneously registering their kids to play in little leagues and on school teams across the country.

Regardless of your warm weather plans, take time to check your insurance policies and determine if you are covered for the unexpected.

Mr. Darras,

Words cannot express my gratitude to you and your team at DarrasLaw.

You took a nightmare I could not solve on my own and worked what I would call, nothing short of a miracle, in helping me get the insurance company to pay my claim.

I am finally at peace and have resolution to what seemed like a cement wall of defeat.

Thank you for helping me win and move forward in my life with dignity.

Sincerely, J. Greene

Travel Safety

Whether your kids are driving or flying to their spring break destination, or if the family is taking a cruise, be sure you understand what insurance coverage you have or need before embarking on a travel adventure.

With March Madness and Major League Baseball in the headlines, the excitement of great games also puts the spotlight on injuries. Are these players and teams we love to watch really protected if they get injured in a game? This video offers information for players, coaches and parents.

QUESTION: What steps do I need to follow to protect my home in case of a disaster?

ANSWER: Every year, videotape your interior and possessions and also your landscaping and the outside of your home. Make sure you have copies of important documents stored in another physical location outside the home, like a family member's home or a safe deposit box. Always have your insurance company name, your policy number and your agent's contact information in an easy to find spot.
